

My journey through maternity care

Helping you make decisions about your care

This leaflet explains the main options available to help you decide your preferences for your maternity care in West Yorkshire and Harrogate.

Your midwife will discuss your medical history and any previous births with you, as this may affect what is recommended for you.

The NHS organisations in West Yorkshire and Harrogate are working together as a Local Maternity System (LMS) to support you, your partner and your family to know what is available for you, so you can make decisions which are right for you.

West Yorkshire and Harrogate LMS: Our Vision:

- To be the place where women, their partners and their families choose to receive their maternity care and birth their babies.
- All women, their partners and their families will receive the highest quality maternity and neonatal care where they are given choice, supported, reassured, not judged and treated as individuals.
- All women, their partners and their families are listened to and experience care that is safe, responsive, and respectful to their needs and wishes throughout pregnancy and birth.

The LMS has a common understanding of what we mean by:

Choice is women and their families make informed decisions about their maternity journey once they know all the options that are available in the LMS.

Preference is a desired maternity journey based on the information, options and support available.

Personalisation is a maternity care plan for me.

Giving feedback about your care is encouraged and welcomed across the LMS. You can give feedback to your midwife or team, by completing a friends and family questionnaire, or through the Patient Advice Liaison Service (PALS) in your local NHS organisation. You can also get involved in how your local services are developed through the local Maternity Voices Partnership (MVP), you can find out about your local MVP here: www.nationalmaternityvoices.org/

Every pregnancy journey is different. Your maternity team is committed to supporting your individual needs.

Before your baby is due (antenatal)

Every woman is entitled to antenatal care. It is important to start your antenatal care as soon as your pregnancy is confirmed. You will have a named midwife, who will co-ordinate your care. You will be offered a range of appointments and tests. See page 12. Some women need more appointments or tests than others.

Some of your antenatal care may be offered in a Children's Centre or GP Surgery. Some appointments will take place in a hospital outpatient clinic, such as your ultrasound scan and appointments with Obstetricians (pregnancy doctors).

Supportive partners

Sharing your pregnancy journey with your partner is important for you both. Talking to each other and sharing your feelings is really important. Partners are welcome at your appointments and the birth, if you/they wish.

www.nhs.uk/conditions/pregnancy-and-baby/dad-to-be-pregnant-partner/#supporting-your-pregnant-partner

Continuity of carer

Studies (Sandall et al, 2016) show that maternity care, including the birth, provided by a midwife or team of midwives you know, leads to better outcomes and safety for you and your baby. Across West Yorkshire and Harrogate continuity of carer is being introduced over the coming years.

Birth

This leaflet will help you decide where you would like to give birth to your baby. One or more options may be recommended to you but you may wish to choose a different option - it is your pregnancy and your choice. We want to ensure you receive the best quality, safe care during your pregnancy and birth.

Home birth

Midwives come to your home to support you during your labour and birth.

Free-standing birth centre

A more homely environment led by midwives, where the focus is on birth without medical intervention. Located away from a main hospital or on a different site to a Delivery Suite.

Alongside birth centre

A more homely environment led by midwives, where the focus is on birth without medical intervention. Located in the same hospital building as the Delivery Suite.

Delivery suite (labour ward)

In the maternity unit of a hospital; with medical facilities and doctors on hand if you need them..

Wherever you choose to give birth in West Yorkshire and Harrogate, you will have access to the right expertise from our highly qualified, skilled and experienced staff in appropriate modern facilities. You may choose to have antenatal care with one hospital and birth with another.

www.rcm.org.uk/your-pregnancy-resources-for-women

Home birth

You can choose to have your baby at home. Home birth is a safe choice for women who have a pregnancy without any health concerns for Mum or baby, and who want to give birth in familiar surroundings with support from midwives.

Research suggests that having your baby at home can increase the chances of having a normal birth and reduce the risks of intervention in birth, such as caesarean section, assisted delivery, episiotomy and the need for medicinal pain relief (Birthplace study, 2011).

Women who have their babies at home are more likely to birth in water and report higher levels of birth satisfaction.

If there is a problem during labour, you will be offered a transfer to hospital, accompanied by your midwife.

Reasons to consider a home birth:

- Increase the chance of a straightforward birth and avoid medical interventions.
- Enjoy your own surroundings and comforts - your own bed and bathroom - to help you relax and be as comfortable as possible, without the need to interrupt labour to travel to hospital.

Birth centres

Birth centres are staffed by midwives and provide a calm 'home-from-home' environment, that can help labour to progress better. Birth pools are available and encouraged.

The Birth Place in England Study (2011) shows that if you are having a pregnancy without any health concerns for you or baby, birth centres are just as safe as delivery suites for baby, and safer for the mother, because the likelihood of you needing a caesarean section or other medical interventions is much lower.

Freestanding Birth Centres are not on the same hospital site as the Delivery Suite. Alongside Birth Centres are in the same building as the Delivery Suite.

If there is a problem during your labour, you will be offered a transfer to the Delivery Suite, accompanied by your midwife.

Reasons to consider a birth centre:

- A more homely environment led by midwives, where the focus is on birth without medical intervention.
- Enjoy relaxing surroundings and comforts, with facilities such as pool to give birth in water

Delivery suite (labour ward)

If you or your baby have any health concerns which might require medical care and reduce the chance of a straightforward labour and birth, you will be recommended to have your baby in a delivery suite (labour ward), where doctors are available to help if needed. This will be discussed throughout your pregnancy. You will have your own room to give birth in.

If you have a caesarean section, your care and operation will take place in the hospital, either on the delivery suite or in the hospital theatre department.

Reasons to consider a hospital birth:

- If you or your baby have health concerns which mean that the birth is less likely to be straightforward
- If you are having a caesarean section
- If your baby may need special care immediately after birth

Wherever you choose to birth your baby(ies), as soon as possible after your birth you will be encouraged to spend as much skin-to-skin contact with your baby to help you and your baby to develop a close relationship. Your partner can do this too.

After your baby is born (postnatal)

After your baby is born, you and your baby should receive the following care:

- Feeding support - this may be by midwives, maternity support workers or health visitors or peer supporters. Responsive feeding is recommended, this means allowing baby to tell you when a feed is required. Breast milk is perfectly designed for your baby and provides protection from infections and diseases. Breastfeeding provides long term health benefits for you and your baby, and also helps the bond to build between you and your baby.
- Vitamin K by injection or oral supplement for your baby
- Newborn examination within 72 hours after birth
- Newborn hearing screening
- Postnatal care - carried out by your community midwife or a maternity support worker; to check on your physical and emotional wellbeing, and your baby's wellbeing. This may be in your home or at a local clinic, and will continue according to your needs and wishes
- Baby's blood spot screening - a small sample of blood usually taken by your midwife or maternity support worker to check for some possible genetic problems (around day five)

Your care and your visits with your midwife, maternity support worker and health visitor will be planned with you, and may take place at home or close to where you live.

My Maternity Journey...a handy guide of what to expect and when

Weeks 0-12

As soon as you know you are pregnant, start/continue taking folic acid tablets (400mcg daily), and see your midwife or GP. You may be able to self-refer (online) to the hospital of your choice. You should have your first 'booking' appointment before ten weeks.

Consider where you want to have your baby at home, in a Birth Centre, or in a Hospital.

Every time you see your midwife/Doctor you will be asked to bring a urine sample and you will have your blood pressure checked.

Ask your midwife for a maternity exemption certificate to benefit from free prescriptions and NHS dental treatment.

You will be offered routine blood tests, and screening choices (including a scan), see: www.nhs.uk/conditions/pregnancy-and-baby/screening-tests-abnormality-pregnant/

There are foods you should avoid when you are pregnant, see: www.nhs.uk/conditions/pregnancy-and-baby/foods-to-avoid-pregnant/ for the latest guidance. You may be entitled to vouchers to help buy fruit, vegetables and milk, see: www.healthystart.nhs.uk/

Always check with your GP, pharmacist or midwife before you take any medicines.

Visit www.nhs.uk/start4life for tips on keeping yourself well during pregnancy.

Weeks 13-28

Ask your midwife for a MAT B1 certificate (After 20 weeks). This confirms your pregnancy for your employer.

Book your antenatal classes - your midwife will give you details. If you're out of work or on a low income visit www.gov.uk to see what benefits you are entitled to.

At around 20 weeks a scan will check your baby's development.

You will be offered:

- Whooping cough vaccination
- Seasonal flu vaccination

And if you are at risk of gestational diabetes, a glucose tolerance test (GTT).

You may feel your baby move as early as 16 weeks of pregnancy, but most women usually feel something for the first time between 18 and 24 weeks. There is no set number of normal movements you should be feeling - every baby is different. Your baby will have their own pattern of movements that you should get to know. After 32 weeks, the pattern of movements will stay roughly the same until you give birth.

Weeks 28 to birth

Prepare your birth plan - you'll get the information you need from your antenatal classes or midwife.

Pack a bag for things you will need for the birth, so they are close to hand (for baby too).

Check out what you'll need for feeding your baby and prepare yourself now.

You will be offered more routine blood tests. If you are rhesus negative, you may need an anti-D injection if you do not know the baby's Rhesus factor.

Visit www.nhs.uk/conditions/pregnancy-and-baby/?tabname=im-pregnant to get advice on common health problems during pregnancy.

DO NOT WAIT until the next day to seek advice if you are worried about your baby's movements. Contact your midwife or maternity unit immediately if you think your baby's movements have slowed down, stopped or changed. There are staff on the hospital maternity unit 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Movements should NOT slow down towards the end of pregnancy.

After baby is born

Your baby will be offered: vitamin K, a physical examination (within 72 hours), a hearing screening test and possibly a BCG vaccination.

You will be cared for by your midwife after which, a Health Visitor will visit you at home to help you, and your family and your new baby stay healthy.

You'll be given a personal child health record (PCHR). This has a red cover and is known as the "red book". Your midwife and Health Visitor will write in it and so can you.

Postnatal care

Register the birth within 42 days - visit www.gov.uk for details.

You will be offered a blood spot test, which tests your baby's blood for nine rare, but serious, health conditions.
A hearing screen will also be arranged if you had your baby at home.

If you were due for a cervical screening test while pregnant, this should be rescheduled for around 12 weeks after the birth.

Please use these pages to note down anything you would like to discuss with your midwife.
